

March, 26th 2011

I received this book from one of my good friend Margherita Lazzati. This book was born from an idea of Sarah Frasca and Gabriele Carabelli, technicians of radiotherapy in Milan that wants to help kids who have to face a long journey due to a disease, with a story that will give them the strength they need.

It might help the parents as well, since they have to have the strength to see their child suffer.

A parent, in an intimate moment with the child, will be able to explain what is going on, without anxiety and fear.

Annalisa Beghelli drawn the story and Emanuela Nava wrote it.

The copies of the volume will be handed for free inside the ward of pediatric radiotherapy of the Institute of Tumours of Milan and on National territory.

Alessio Redaelli